5 Ways Corporate Hierarchy Data Can Accelerate B2B Enterprise Sales

https://pipeline.zoominfo.com//operations/sales-company-hierarchy-data

Filmed

Post Production Notes:

- [ ] Create assembly Edit
- [ ] Create Social Teaser Edit (Separate sequence)
- [ ] Cropping in/out throughout for flow/jump cuts
- [ ] Add Captions (Single line)
- [ ] Create VML Chapter Marker Screens
- [ ] Create sub-sections screens
- [ ] Create Text Call Outs throughout
- [ ] Add any Graphics/Visuals
- [ ] Footage Coloring/Grading
- [ ] Audio Mix
- [ ] Intro/Outro Bumpers with music

SOCIAL TEASER 1:

Have you ever celebrated a deal… and then found out the company you sold to can't actually sign anything?

It happens constantly.

You think you're selling to a $60M brand. Turns out? They're owned by a $40B parent company that has their own approval process, their own budget cycle, and their own security review.

And if you don't know that from the first call, you're burning months you'll never get back.

In this episode, I break down the hierarchy data reps use to avoid this exact trap—and how to start every enterprise deal at the actual power center, not the pretend one.

Click the link below to watch. Your future pipeline will thank you.

OPENING HOOK (0:00–0:30)
Picture this: It's month three of your enterprise deal. Your champion loves you. The ROI deck is perfect. You're about to close. Then your contact drops this: "I need to run this by corporate."

(on-screen text: "Wait... corporate?")

And your stomach sinks. Because you just realized you've been selling to the wrong company this entire time.

(pause for emphasis)

This happens every single day to enterprise reps. You think you're talking to the decision-maker. But that mid-sized company you've been pitching? It's actually owned by a Fortune 500 parent that controls every dollar. Three months. Gone.

(on-screen text: "90 days wasted")

If you're selling enterprise deals and you don't understand corporate hierarchies, you're lighting time on fire. Today, I'm showing you the five ways hierarchy data helps you find real power, accelerate your cycle, and close deals you're currently losing. And later, I'll give you the single most important questions you can ask on any first call that instantly reveals whether you're talking to the wrong entity."

But first….

SECTION 1: WHAT IS CORPORATE HIERARCHY DATA? (0:30–1:30)
If you're an enterprise AE, an account exec selling six-figure deals, or a sales leader tired of watching reps chase ghosts—this is for you. Because here's what you're up against right now. Enterprise sales are complex. Long cycles. Multiple stakeholders. High stakes.

And here's the trap most reps fall into: They only see one layer.

(pause)

They see the company they're talking to. They don't see who owns it. Who writes the checks. Where the real power lives. That's the game-changer: corporate hierarchy data. It's structured information that maps how companies relate to each other—parent companies, subsidiaries, divisions, branches.

(on-screen text: "It's a family tree for businesses")

Think of it like this: Company C might look independent. But Company C rolls up to Company B, which rolls up to Company A—the actual parent.

(show visualization: corporate family tree)

Here's what this shows you: Who owns who. Where the budget lives. Where decisions actually get made. Let me give you a real example you'll recognize. You want to sell to ABC Television. Great brand. Good fit. But here's what most reps miss: ABC is owned by Disney.

(on-screen text: "ABC → Disney")

That means when it's time to sign? That's happening at Disney HQ, not the ABC office you've been calling for three months. If you don't know that structure upfront, you're building a house on sand. Now here's why this matters so much.

SECTION 2: FIVE WAYS HIERARCHY DATA SPEEDS UP YOUR DEALS (1:30–6:45)
Let me walk you through five specific ways this changes your enterprise motion. And I'm betting at least three of these are costing you deals right now.

Way #1: Improve Sales Velocity By Selling to the Whole Family (1:30–2:30)
Most reps think small. They land one company and celebrate. But here's the move top performers make: They sell to the entire corporate family.

(pause)

Picture this: You're selling cloud storage to Company C. Mid-sized SaaS player. Good opportunity. But what you don't realize? Company C is a subsidiary of Company B, which rolls up to parent Company A.

(show visualization: C → B → A)

If you only sell to Company C, you get one deal. Maybe 50K. But if you know the hierarchy, you can sell to C, then B, then potentially A. Same product. Three deals. Maybe 200K instead of 50K.

(on-screen text: "1 deal → 3 deals, 4x revenue")

And here's the beautiful part: Once Company C loves your product, that's your foot in the door at Company B. "Hey, your sister company is already using us. Let me show you what they're getting." That's not cold outreach. That's warm momentum. You're not starting from zero every time. You're building a wave across the entire org. That's sales velocity.

Way #2: Deeper Market Insights That Change Your Strategy (2:30–3:15)
Successful reps don't just work deals. They study patterns. And hierarchy data reveals patterns you'd never see otherwise.

(pause)

Here's what I mean. Let's say you analyze your top 20 customers. And you notice something: Fifteen of them are subsidiaries of larger parents. That insight changes everything.

(show chart: customer pattern analysis)

Now you know: When you're prospecting, target subsidiaries. They're your sweet spot. They convert faster. Or maybe you discover most of your customers separate budgets by division. Now you know: When you're researching accounts, find out which division owns the budget for your category.

(on-screen text: "Patterns → Strategy")

These insights sharpen your targeting. You stop wasting time on the wrong accounts.

Way #3: Turn One Customer Into Five Prospects (3:15–4:00)
Here's a stat: 42% of reps say prospecting is the hardest part of their job.

(on-screen text: "Prospecting = #1 pain point")

But hierarchy data makes prospecting way easier. Let me show you how. You've got a great customer—TechCorp. They've been with you for two years. Love your product. Strong relationship.

Instead of cold prospecting new accounts, you pull up TechCorp's hierarchy. And boom: TechCorp has four sister companies under the same parent.

(show visualization: 1 customer → 4 sister companies)

Same parent. Similar operations. Probably similar pain points. Now here's the play: You ask your champion at TechCorp for a warm intro to their counterpart at the sister companies. Four qualified prospects. Zero cold calls. All warm intros.

(on-screen text: "Warm > Cold, every time")

One customer just became a pipeline goldmine.

Way #4: Skip the Middleman and Reach Real Power (4:00–5:00)
Let's talk about the biggest time-suck in enterprise sales: selling to someone who can't actually buy.

(pause for emphasis)

You've been there. Great conversations. Strong interest. Everything's tracking. Then: "We need corporate approval." And you realize: They don't control the budget. The parent company does.

(show visualization: approval chain)

Now you've got two options. Option one: Wait for your contact to pitch it internally. Hope they do it well. Pray it doesn't die. Or option two: Use hierarchy data to identify who at the parent company has authority. Reach out proactively. Run both conversations in parallel.

(on-screen text: "Don't wait. Act.")

Which approach do you think closes faster? When you know the hierarchy upfront, you can involve the right level of authority from day one. You're not waiting. You're not hoping. You're controlling the process. That's how you shorten six-month cycles to three months.

Way #5: Cross-Sell Without Being That Guy (5:00–6:00)
Cross-selling is risky. Do it wrong and you're the pushy rep who's always upselling. But hierarchy data lets you cross-sell strategically.

(pause)

Here's how. You sell marketing automation to a company. They love it. Great partnership. Now you've got a new product: mobile analytics. You think it's a fit. But instead of just pitching your existing contact—who might not care—you check the hierarchy. And you discover: They have a separate division focused on mobile app development.

(show visualization: different division)

Now instead of a blind upsell, you contact the mobile division directly. "Hey, your marketing team uses our automation platform. I wanted to connect because we just launched a mobile analytics tool that's built for teams like yours." Right product. Right buyer. Way higher conversion.

(on-screen text: "Strategic upsell > Random pitch")

Same company. Different door. Totally different result. Alright, now let me show you where this really matters in practice.

SECTION 3: WHEN HIERARCHY DATA BECOMES EVERYTHING (6:00–7:15)

“This is the pattern I mentioned earlier — the one top reps follow every time. They always map the parent company first, then work downward. That simple shift keeps you from wasting months selling into the wrong layer.”

Here's the rule: The more complex your sale, the more hierarchy matters.

(pause)

If you're selling office supplies? Probably doesn't matter. Each location can decide. But if you're selling enterprise software, security, infrastructure, anything requiring corporate sign-off? Hierarchy data is everything.

(on-screen text: "Complex sale = Must-know hierarchies")

Let me paint the nightmare scenario. You're selling cloud storage to Company C. You don't know they're part of a corporate structure. So you educate Company C. Build the business case. Show ROI. Get buy-in. But you missed one thing: Company A—the parent—controls all IT spending across subsidiaries.

(show workflow: missing the parent)

When it's time to close, Company C says, "We love this. But we need corporate approval." Now you're starting over. New stakeholders. New objections. Rebuilding from scratch. You just added three to six months to your cycle.

(pause for emphasis)

But what if you'd known about Company A from day one? You could've involved them early. Built parallel relationships. Coordinated your messaging. Instead of sequential selling, you're doing simultaneous selling. Result? Half the time. Double the confidence.

The Connection You're Missing

Here's another play. Imagine you want to reach an enterprise security firm. Big target. Recently got funded. You're ready to connect. But it's a cold outreach.

(show cold email visual)

Then you check hierarchy data. And you see: They're a subsidiary of a company where your old colleague works. You ping your colleague. They make the intro.

(on-screen text: "Cold → Warm in 10 minutes")

That warm connection was invisible until you knew the corporate structure. And in enterprise sales, warm intros can be worth six months of cold outreach.

SECTION 4: FINDING THE REAL BUYING CENTER (7:15–8:15)

Here's the hard truth: Every enterprise buys differently. There's no universal playbook. What works at one company doesn't work at another.

So what's the strategy? Constant requalification.As you're selling, you're constantly confirming: Am I talking to the right person? At the right level? In the right entity?

Here’s those questions I mentioned at the beginning of the video that instantly tells you if you’re talking to the wrong entity and that you need to be asking throughout your deal: "How do you see this rolling out across your organization?" "Between now and when we'd sign, what needs to happen?" "Walk me through your approval process." "Who else needs to weigh in on a decision like this?"

(show question list)

These questions uncover hidden relationships. Sometimes your contact will say, "Well, purchasing happens at our parent company." Or: "Our European operations handle vendor decisions for this." If you catch these early, you can adapt. You can loop in the right people from the start. You can map the entire buying center across the corporate structure.

(on-screen text: "Map it early or pay later")

And that's the whole game.

SECTION 5: WHY THIS BELONGS IN YOUR STACK (8:15–8:45)
Corporate hierarchy data isn't "nice-to-have context." It's a force multiplier for your entire enterprise motion.

(pause for emphasis)

Hierarchies show you where power lives. Who has influence. Where decisions actually happen. With hierarchy data, you've got a map from first touch to closed-won. Without it? You're wandering in the dark, missing opportunities hiding in plain sight.

(on-screen text: "Hierarchy data = Your enterprise GPS")

ZoomInfo has spent nearly 20 years mapping over 100 million companies and tracking the constant shifts in corporate structures. That's not just data. That's GTM intelligence—actionable insight you can move on today. Want to run a smarter enterprise motion? Start by mapping the company. Then move.

CLOSING (8:45–9:30)
Here's the bottom line. If you're selling enterprise and you don't know the corporate hierarchy, you're playing blindfolded.

(pause for emphasis)

You're wasting time on people who can't buy. You're missing bigger opportunities across the corporate family. You're extending cycles by six months because you didn't involve the parent company early enough. Corporate hierarchy data fixes all of that. It shows you who owns who. Where budgets live. Where decisions get made.

(on-screen text: "Know the structure = Win the deal")

It lets you sell to entire corporate families, not just one subsidiary. It helps you find warm intros through existing customers. It gets you to real decision-makers faster. And it turns random cross-sell attempts into strategic expansions.

So here's my challenge: Look at your top five target accounts right now. Do you know their corporate structure? Do you know if they're a subsidiary? Do you know who the parent is?

(on-screen text: "Do you really know your accounts?")

If the answer is no, you're leaving money—and time—on the table. Get access to accurate corporate hierarchy data. Map your accounts. Find the real buying centers. And watch your enterprise deals accelerate. Thanks for watching.

VISUAL

OPENING HOOK (0:00–0:30)

Picture this: It’s month three of your enterprise deal.
Text: Month three of your enterprise deal

Your champion loves you. The ROI deck is perfect. You’re about to close.
Text: Champion loves you
Text: ROI deck is perfect
Text: You’re about to close

Then your contact drops this: “I need to run this by corporate.”
Text: “I need to run this by corporate.”
Quote Card: I need to run this by corporate.

(on-screen text: "Wait... corporate?")
Text: Wait… corporate?

And your stomach sinks.
Text: Your stomach sinks

Because you just realized you’ve been selling to the wrong company this entire time.
Text: Selling to the wrong company
Quote Card: selling to the wrong company this entire time

(pause for emphasis)
Text: (Beat)

This happens every single day to enterprise reps.
Text: Happens every day to enterprise reps
Quote Card: This happens every single day

You think you’re talking to the decision-maker.
Text: You think it’s the decision-maker

But that mid-sized company you’ve been pitching?
Text: Mid-sized company you’ve been pitching

It’s actually owned by a Fortune 500 parent that controls every dollar.
Text: Owned by a Fortune 500 parent
Quote Card: a Fortune 500 parent controls every dollar

Three months. Gone.
Text: Three months. Gone.
Quote Card: Three months. Gone.

(on-screen text: "90 days wasted")
Text: 90 days wasted

If you’re selling enterprise deals and you don’t understand corporate hierarchies, you’re lighting time on fire.

Text: Enterprise hierarchies matter
Quote Card: you’re lighting time on fire

Today, I’m showing you the five ways hierarchy data helps you find real power, accelerate your cycle, and close deals you’re currently losing.
Text: Find real power
Text: Accelerate your cycle
Text: Close deals you’re losing

And later, I’ll give you the single most important questions you can ask on any first call that instantly reveals whether you’re talking to the wrong entity.
Text: The questions that reveal the wrong entity
Quote Card: instantly reveals whether you’re talking wrong entity

But first…
Text: But first…

SECTION 1: WHAT IS CORPORATE HIERARCHY DATA? (0:30–1:30)

If you’re an enterprise AE, an account exec selling six-figure deals, or a sales leader tired of watching reps chase ghosts, this is for you.
Text: Enterprise AEs + sales leaders
Quote Card: tired of watching reps chase ghosts

Because here’s what you’re up against right now.
Text: What you’re up against

Enterprise sales are complex. Long cycles. Multiple stakeholders. High stakes.
Text: Long cycles
Text: Multiple stakeholders
Text: High stakes

And here’s the trap most reps fall into: They only see one layer.
Text: The trap: only one layer
Quote Card: They only see one layer.

(pause)
Text: (Beat)

They see the company they're talking to.
Text: The company in front of you

They don't see who owns it. Who writes the checks. Where the real power lives.
Text: Who owns it
Text: Who writes the checks
Text: Where real power lives
Quote Card: They don't see who owns it.

That's the game-changer: corporate hierarchy data.
Text: Corporate hierarchy data

It's structured information that maps how companies relate to each other: parent companies, subsidiaries, divisions, branches.
Text: Parent → subsidiary → division → branch

(on-screen text: "It's a family tree for businesses")
Text: It's a family tree for businesses
Quote Card: It's a family tree for businesses

Think of it like this: Company C might look independent.
Text: Company C looks independent

But Company C rolls up to Company B, which rolls up to Company A, the actual parent.
Text: C → B → A (parent)
Quote Card: Company C rolls up to Company B

(show visualization: corporate family tree)
Text: (Visual: corporate family tree)

Here's what this shows you: Who owns who. Where the budget lives. Where decisions actually get made.
Text: Who owns who
Text: Where budget lives
Text: Where decisions happen
Quote Card: Where decisions actually get made.

Let me give you a real example you'll recognize. You want to sell to ABC Television.
Text: Example: ABC Television

Great brand. Good fit.
Text: Great brand, good fit

But here's what most reps miss: ABC is owned by Disney.
Text: ABC is owned by Disney
Quote Card: ABC is owned by Disney.

(on-screen text: "ABC → Disney")
Text: ABC → Disney

That means when it's time to sign? That's happening at Disney HQ, not the ABC office you've been calling for three months.
Text: Signing happens at the parent HQ
Quote Card: happening at Disney HQ, not ABC

If you don't know that structure upfront, you're building a house on sand.
Text: Structure first, or it collapses
Quote Card: you're building a house on sand

Now here's why this matters so much.
Text: Why this matters

SECTION 2: FIVE WAYS HIERARCHY DATA SPEEDS UP YOUR DEALS (1:30–6:45)

Let me walk you through five specific ways this changes your enterprise motion.
Text: 5 ways it changes your motion

And I'm betting at least three of these are costing you deals right now.
Text: This is costing you deals
Quote Card: costing you deals right now

Way #1: Improve Sales Velocity By Selling to the Whole Family (1:30–2:30)

Most reps think small. They land one company and celebrate.
Text: Most reps think small

But here's the move top performers make: They sell to the entire corporate family.
Text: Sell to the corporate family
Quote Card: They sell to the entire corporate family.

(pause)
Text: (Beat)

Picture this: You're selling cloud storage to Company C. Mid-sized SaaS player. Good opportunity.
Text: Selling to Company C

But what you don't realize? Company C is a subsidiary of Company B, which rolls up to parent Company A.
Text: C → B → A
Quote Card: Company C is a subsidiary of Company B

(show visualization: C → B → A)
Text: (Visual: C → B → A)

If you only sell to Company C, you get one deal. Maybe 50K.
Text: One deal (maybe 50K)

But if you know the hierarchy, you can sell to C, then B, then potentially A.
Text: Expand to B, then A
Quote Card: you can sell to C, then B

Same product. Three deals. Maybe 200K instead of 50K.
Text: 3 deals, bigger total

(on-screen text: "1 deal → 3 deals, 4x revenue")
Text: 1 deal → 3 deals, 4x revenue
Quote Card: 1 deal → 3 deals, 4x revenue

And here's the beautiful part: Once Company C loves your product, that's your foot in the door at Company B.

Text: Love at C unlocks B
Quote Card: your foot in the door at Company B

“Hey, your sister company is already using us. Let me show you what they’re getting.”
Text: Sister company proof

That’s not cold outreach. That’s warm momentum.
Text: Warm momentum
Quote Card: That’s warm momentum.

You’re not starting from zero every time. You’re building a wave across the entire org.
Text: Build a wave across the org
Quote Card: building a wave across the entire org

That’s sales velocity.
Text: That’s velocity

Way #2: Deeper Market Insights That Change Your Strategy (2:30–3:15)

Successful reps don’t just work deals. They study patterns.
Text: Study patterns

And hierarchy data reveals patterns you’d never see otherwise.
Text: Hierarchy reveals hidden patterns
Quote Card: reveals patterns you’d never see otherwise

(pause)
Text: (Beat)

Let’s say you analyze your top 20 customers.
Text: Analyze top customers

And you notice something: Fifteen of them are subsidiaries of larger parents.
Text: Subsidiaries win for you
Quote Card: Fifteen of them are subsidiaries

(show chart: customer pattern analysis)
Text: (Visual: pattern chart)

That insight changes everything.
Text: Insight changes everything
Quote Card: That insight changes everything.

Now you know: When you're prospecting, target subsidiaries. They convert faster.
Text: Target subsidiaries (convert faster)

Or maybe you discover most of your customers separate budgets by division.
Text: Budgets split by division

Now you know: find out which division owns the budget for your category.
Text: Find budget-owning division
Quote Card: which division owns the budget

(on-screen text: "Patterns → Strategy")
Text: Patterns → Strategy
Quote Card: Patterns → Strategy

These insights sharpen your targeting.
Text: Sharper targeting

You stop wasting time on the wrong accounts.
Text: Stop wasting time
Quote Card: wasting time on the wrong accounts

Way #3: Turn One Customer Into Five Prospects (3:15–4:00)

Here's a stat: 42% of reps say prospecting is the hardest part of their job.
Text: Prospecting is hardest
Quote Card: prospecting is the hardest part

(on-screen text: "Prospecting = #1 pain point")
Text: Prospecting = #1 pain point
Quote Card: Prospecting = #1 pain point

But hierarchy data makes prospecting way easier.
Text: Hierarchy makes prospecting easier
Quote Card: makes prospecting way easier

You've got a great customer, TechCorp. They love your product. Strong relationship.
Text: Start with a happy customer

Instead of cold prospecting, you pull up TechCorp's hierarchy.
Text: Pull up their hierarchy

And boom: TechCorp has four sister companies under the same parent.
Text: Four sister companies
Quote Card: four sister companies under the same parent

(show visualization: 1 customer → 4 sister companies)
Text: (Visual: 1 → 4)

Same parent. Similar operations. Probably similar pain points.
Text: Similar ops, similar pain

Now here's the play: Ask your champion for a warm intro.
Text: Ask for warm intros
Quote Card: ask your champion… for a warm intro

Four qualified prospects. Zero cold calls.
Text: Four prospects, zero cold calls
Quote Card: Zero cold calls.

(on-screen text: "Warm > Cold, every time")
Text: Warm > Cold, every time
Quote Card: Warm > Cold, every time

One customer just became a pipeline goldmine.
Text: Pipeline goldmine
Quote Card: pipeline goldmine

Way #4: Skip the Middleman and Reach Real Power (4:00–5:00)

Biggest time-suck in enterprise sales: selling to someone who can't actually buy.
Text: Selling to someone who can't buy
Quote Card: someone who can't actually buy

(pause for emphasis)
Text: (Beat)

Then: “We need corporate approval.”
Text: We need corporate approval
Quote Card: We need corporate approval.

And you realize: They don’t control the budget. The parent company does.
Text: Parent controls the budget
Quote Card: The parent company does.

(show visualization: approval chain)
Text: (Visual: approval chain)

Option one: Wait for your contact to pitch it internally.
Text: Option 1: Wait

Hope they do it well. Pray it doesn’t die.
Text: Hope and pray (bad plan)

Option two: Identify who at the parent has authority. Reach out proactively.
Text: Option 2: Go to authority
Quote Card: Reach out proactively.

Run both conversations in parallel.
Text: Parallel conversations
Quote Card: Run both conversations in parallel.

(on-screen text: "Don't wait. Act.")
Text: Don’t wait. Act.
Quote Card: Don’t wait. Act.

When you know the hierarchy upfront, you can involve the right level of authority from day one.
Text: Right authority from day one
Quote Card: from day one

You’re controlling the process.
Text: Control the process
Quote Card: You’re controlling the process.

That’s how you shorten six-month cycles to three months.
Text: 6 months → 3 months
Quote Card: shorten six-month cycles to three months

Way #5: Cross-Sell Without Being That Guy (5:00–6:00)

Cross-selling is risky. Do it wrong and you’re the pushy rep.
Text: Cross-sell without being pushy

But hierarchy data lets you cross-sell strategically.
Text: Cross-sell strategically
Quote Card: cross-sell strategically

(pause)
Text: (Beat)

You sell marketing automation. They love it.
Text: Existing win

Now you’ve got a new product: mobile analytics.
Text: New product: mobile analytics

Instead of pitching your existing contact, check the hierarchy.
Text: Check hierarchy first
Quote Card: check the hierarchy

You discover a separate division focused on mobile app development.
Text: Find the right division
Quote Card: separate division focused on mobile app development

(show visualization: different division)
Text: (Visual: different division)

Now it’s not a blind upsell. It’s right product, right buyer.
Text: Right product, right buyer
Quote Card: Right product. Right buyer.

(on-screen text: "Strategic upsell > Random pitch")
Text: Strategic upsell > Random pitch
Quote Card: Strategic upsell > Random pitch

Same company. Different door. Totally different result.
Text: Same company, different door
Quote Card: Same company. Different door.

Alright, now let me show you where this really matters in practice.
Text: Where it matters most

SECTION 3: WHEN HIERARCHY DATA BECOMES EVERYTHING (6:00–7:15)

This is the pattern I mentioned earlier.
Text: The pattern top reps follow

They always map the parent company first, then work downward.
Text: Map parent first
Quote Card: map the parent company first

That simple shift keeps you from wasting months selling into the wrong layer.
Text: Don’t sell into the wrong layer
Quote Card: wasting months selling into the wrong layer

Here’s the rule: The more complex your sale, the more hierarchy matters.
Text: Complex sale = hierarchy matters
Quote Card: The more complex your sale

(pause)
Text: (Beat)

If you’re selling office supplies, probably doesn’t matter.
Text: Simple sale: less hierarchy

But if you're selling enterprise software, security, infrastructure? Hierarchy data is everything.

Text: Enterprise software: hierarchy is everything

Quote Card: Hierarchy data is everything.

(on-screen text: "Complex sale = Must-know hierarchies")

Text: Complex sale = Must-know hierarchies

Quote Card: Complex sale = Must-know hierarchies

Nightmare scenario: You sell to Company C.

Text: Nightmare scenario

You don't know they're part of a structure.

Text: You didn't map the structure

When it's time to close: "We love this. But we need corporate approval."

Text: Approval wall

Quote Card: We need corporate approval.

Now you're starting over. New stakeholders. New objections.

Text: Starting over

Text: New stakeholders, new objections

Quote Card: New stakeholders. New objections.

You just added three to six months to your cycle.

Text: +3–6 months

Quote Card: added three to six months

But if you'd known the parent from day one?

Text: If you knew day one…

Parallel relationships. Coordinated messaging.

Text: Parallel relationships

Text: Coordinated messaging

Instead of sequential selling, you're doing simultaneous selling.

Text: Simultaneous selling

Quote Card: simultaneous selling

Result? Half the time. Double the confidence.

Text: Half the time

Text: Double the confidence
Quote Card: Half the time. Double the confidence.

The Connection You're Missing
Text: The connection you're missing

Cold outreach becomes warm when hierarchy reveals a hidden link.
Text: Hidden link = warm intro

(on-screen text: "Cold → Warm in 10 minutes")
Text: Cold → Warm in 10 minutes
Quote Card: Cold → Warm in 10 minutes

In enterprise sales, warm intros can be worth six months of cold outreach.
Text: Warm intros save months
Quote Card: worth six months of cold outreach

SECTION 4: FINDING THE REAL BUYING CENTER (7:15–8:15)

Hard truth: Every enterprise buys differently.
Text: Every enterprise buys differently
Quote Card: Every enterprise buys differently.

There's no universal playbook.
Text: No universal playbook
Quote Card: There's no universal playbook.

So what's the strategy? Constant requalification.
Text: Constant requalification
Quote Card: Constant requalification.

As you're selling, confirm: right person, right level, right entity.
Text: Right person
Text: Right level
Text: Right entity

Here are the questions you need early and throughout:
Text: Questions that expose the entity

“How do you see this rolling out across your organization?”
Text: “How do you see this rolling out…”
Quote Card: rolling out across your organization?

“Between now and when we’d sign, what needs to happen?”
Text: “Between now and when we’d sign…”
Quote Card: what needs to happen?

“Walk me through your approval process.”
Text: “Walk me through your approval process.”
Quote Card: Walk me through your approval process.

“Who else needs to weigh in on a decision like this?”
Text: “Who else needs to weigh in…”
Quote Card: Who else needs to weigh in?

(show question list)
Text: (Visual: question list)

These questions uncover hidden relationships.
Text: Uncover hidden relationships
Quote Card: uncover hidden relationships

If you catch these early, you can adapt.
Text: Catch early, adapt fast
Quote Card: If you catch these early

Map the buying center across the corporate structure.
Text: Map the buying center
Quote Card: Map the entire buying center

(on-screen text: "Map it early or pay later")
Text: Map it early or pay later
Quote Card: Map it early or pay later

And that’s the whole game.
Text: That’s the whole game
Quote Card: That’s the whole game.

SECTION 5: WHY THIS BELONGS IN YOUR STACK (8:15–8:45)

Corporate hierarchy data isn’t nice-to-have context.
Text: Not nice-to-have
Quote Card: isn’t "nice-to-have context."

It’s a force multiplier for your enterprise motion.
Text: Force multiplier
Quote Card: a force multiplier

Hierarchies show you where power lives. Who has influence. Where decisions happen.
Text: Where power lives
Text: Who has influence
Text: Where decisions happen
Quote Card: where power lives

Without it? You’re wandering in the dark.
Text: Without it: wandering in the dark
Quote Card: wandering in the dark

(on-screen text: "Hierarchy data = Your enterprise GPS")
Text: Hierarchy data = Your enterprise GPS
Quote Card: Hierarchy data = Your enterprise GPS

LOGO NOTE: If you mention ZoomInfo here, add ZoomInfo logo on screen. If you also mention Disney/ABC earlier, add ABC + Disney logos on that beat.

CLOSING (8:45–9:30)

Bottom line: If you're selling enterprise and you don't know the corporate hierarchy, you're playing blindfolded.

Text: Selling blindfolded

Quote Card: you're playing blindfolded

You're wasting time on people who can't buy.

Text: People who can't buy

Quote Card: people who can't buy

You're missing bigger opportunities across the corporate family.

Text: Missing corporate family opportunity

Quote Card: across the corporate family

You're extending cycles by six months because you didn't involve the parent early enough.

Text: Cycles extended by 6 months

Quote Card: didn't involve the parent company early enough

(on-screen text: "Know the structure = Win the deal")

Text: Know the structure = Win the deal

Quote Card: Know the structure = Win the deal

Challenge: Look at your top five target accounts right now.

Text: Top five target accounts

Do you know their corporate structure? Subsidiary? Parent?

Text: Do you know the structure

Text: Subsidiary or parent?

(on-screen text: "Do you really know your accounts?")

Text: Do you really know your accounts?

Quote Card: Do you really know your accounts?

If the answer is no, you're leaving money and time on the table.

Text: Money + time on the table

Quote Card: leaving money—and time—on the table

Map your accounts. Find the buying centers. Watch enterprise deals accelerate.

Text: Map accounts

Text: Find buying centers

Text: Deals accelerate

Thanks for watching.

Text: Thanks for watching